internship + nash + austria

i have been given the opportunity to travel halfway across the world to a different culture. a different language. a different country. a different continent. all the way to vienna, austria. to gp designpartners. it is here that i have been fully immersed, since day one, into the real world process of design. it is amazing how one single product encapsulates all of the struggles, roadblocks, trials and errors, epiphanies, realizations, everything that goes into the creation of that one final solution. it is even more amazing to be apart of this unplanned, uncharted journey that it takes to arrive at the destination.

being here has made me realize that design is truly international. or should I say the appreciation is international. the drive. the passion. the commitment to good design. it has been an honor and a privilege to work at gp designpartners. my experience here is irreplaceable. europe i will be back!
